INITIAL ASSESSMENT REPORT

OVERALL ASSESSMENT

CURRENT STANDINGS

Exploration

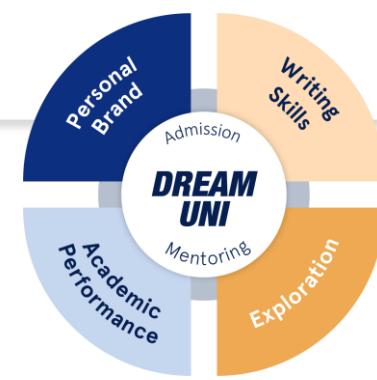

You have expressed your interest in studying Chemistry. You've done a bit exploring into Chemistry from our 2019 SRP program. However, other than that, you seem to have NOT done any further explorations into the Science, especially Chemistry, fields. In addition, you also have limited extracurricular activities, which makes your current passion unclear. Thus, you will need to work on these fronts (exploring academic interest and personal passion).

Personal Brand

Your personal brand is still in its early stages. This means that your personal brand has NOT showcased anything that is unique and stand out about you both in interests & passion as well as personality. You need to soul-search and dig deeper into figuring out your niche.

Academic Performance

You have a fairly good performance with an average B grade. You tend to perform better in Math and Chemistry.

#TakeOnYourFuture #ItsALLinThePrep

AREAS OF IMPROVEMENT

Passion/Interest Exploration & Personal Brand

Despite showing interest in Chemistry, you have NOT really explored deeper into the field. Therefore, you need further exploration into Chemistry and Chemistry-related sciences and do hands-on activities in that field. This can be in the form of personal project, participation in Chemistry-related organization/club, internship, and many more.

In addition to building your profile on your academic interest, you will need to explore activities outside of Chemistry to figure out your personal interest/passion, which would give a personal touch to your personal brand. In addition, you also need to sharpen your soft skills as well as STEM skills as they will be crucial for your future projects and activities.

Academic Performance

You need to improve your grades and aim for average A grades. Perhaps, try to participate in Chemistry and/or Math competitions to enhance your academic profile and, thus, showcase your academic aptitudes to universities.

Summary:

You know that you want to major in Chemistry or anything related to Chemistry, but your profile and personal brand is still a blank canvas. Therefore, your personal brand needs prompt development and a "hook" factor, which could be something from your academic interest, personal passion, or even personality. As such, you need to focus on exploring both the different STEM branches as well as different activities to confirm your major and personal passion.

Note:

Your current overall admissions factors show that you are still well-suited for Less Selective Level schools. Do NOT worry, however, because these factors will improve depending on future performance. Also note that you haven't taken the SAT/ACT, thus the assessment here was rather dragged down.

HOW TO POSITION YOU IN A UNIQUE MANNER FOR UNIVERSITY APPLICATION

"Personal Brand is one or two sentences that student would like the admissions committee to remember about."

Even though you have shown interest in Chemistry, your current profile and personal brand is still underdeveloped. It needs a "hook" factor as well as further profile building to develop your niche and express your deep interest in Chemistry. Thus, your next step is exploration to as many Chemistry-related projects and activities as possible because doing so will enable you to not only confirm your passion and interest, but also allow you to gain practical skills (both soft and hard skills) that will be a significant contribution to developing a unique personal brand.

Your main focus is to gain exposures on the potential career paths in Chemistry as well as other STEM branches that may be of your interest; work on personal projects related to these fields; and participate in activities that are directly relevant to your personal and academic interests to develop your personal brand.
